designed for the way we work today

The pace of life today is accelerating rapidly and to live and work efficiently we need space and surroundings that work the way we do. Clean uncluttered space. Yet most of the furniture for computers that you see seems more like kitchen cabinets than furniture for our living and working areas.

This latest range of Technology Furniture from Sylex Ergonomics is based upon some simple guiding principles:

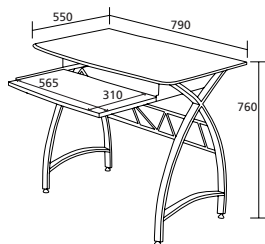

- Flexibility
- Adaptability
- Easy access

Flexibility: Not everyone wants to work facing a wall, but many competitors' products are unfinished on the back, leaving raw unsightly panels exposed and forcing you to locate your computer against a wall. That means that you cannot see what is going on around you and invites "rubbernecks" to see what you are working on.

Adaptability: Simple clean and modular pieces of furniture can be easily relocated and reconfigured in the office space. Storage units are separate so they can be located exactly where you need them. Mobile units move easily to allow you to change your working environment quickly and easily. Folding units swing out to create additional workspace or fold away for convenience.

Easy access: Today we want to be able to quickly access our hardware with plenty of desktop space for the larger Multifunction Centres and other peripherals.
